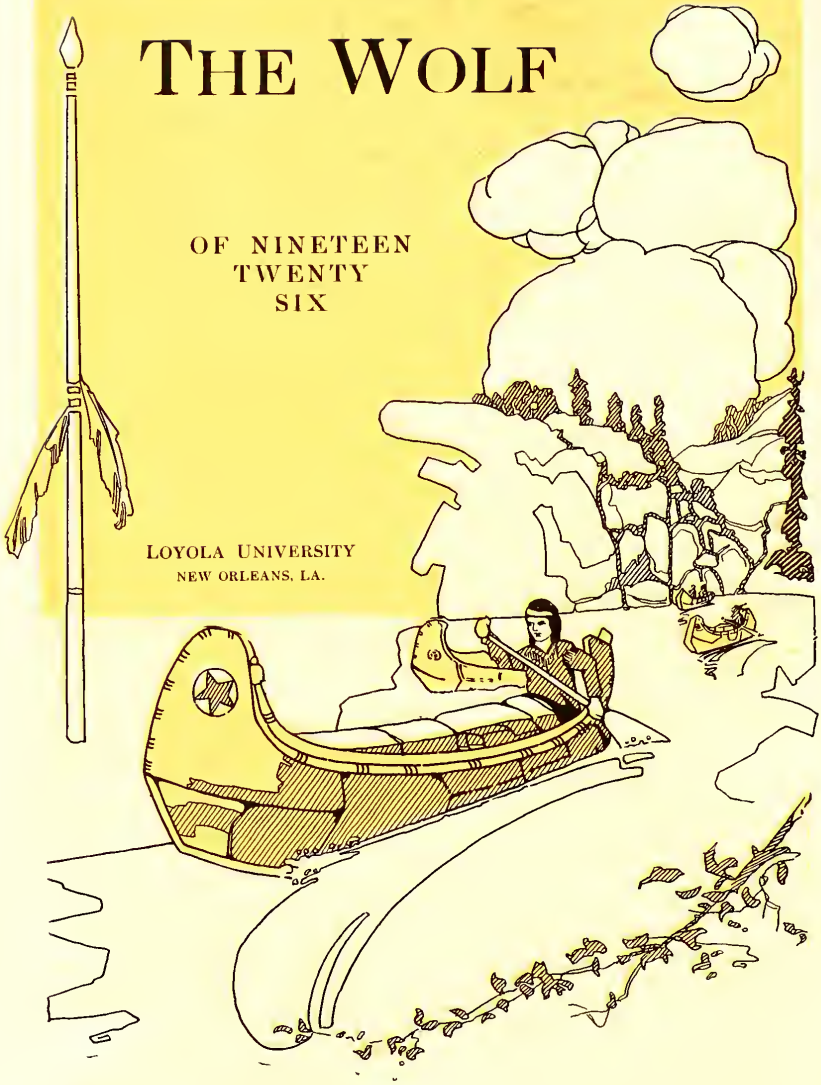
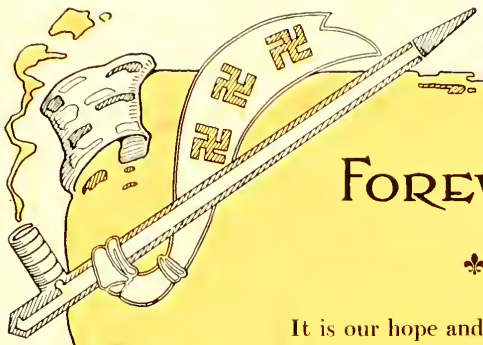
LOYOLA UNIVERSITY
NEW ORLEANS, LA.





Foreword

It is our hope and purpose, in the following pages,

To present to our friends a true record of the year '25-'26.

To recall to those who are interested in the welfare of our University, the glories of the present Loyola that they may be animated to strive with us in realizing the "Greater Loyola" of the future.

Dedication

TO

Our Fathers and Mothers

To whom we owe the priceless gift of our education;

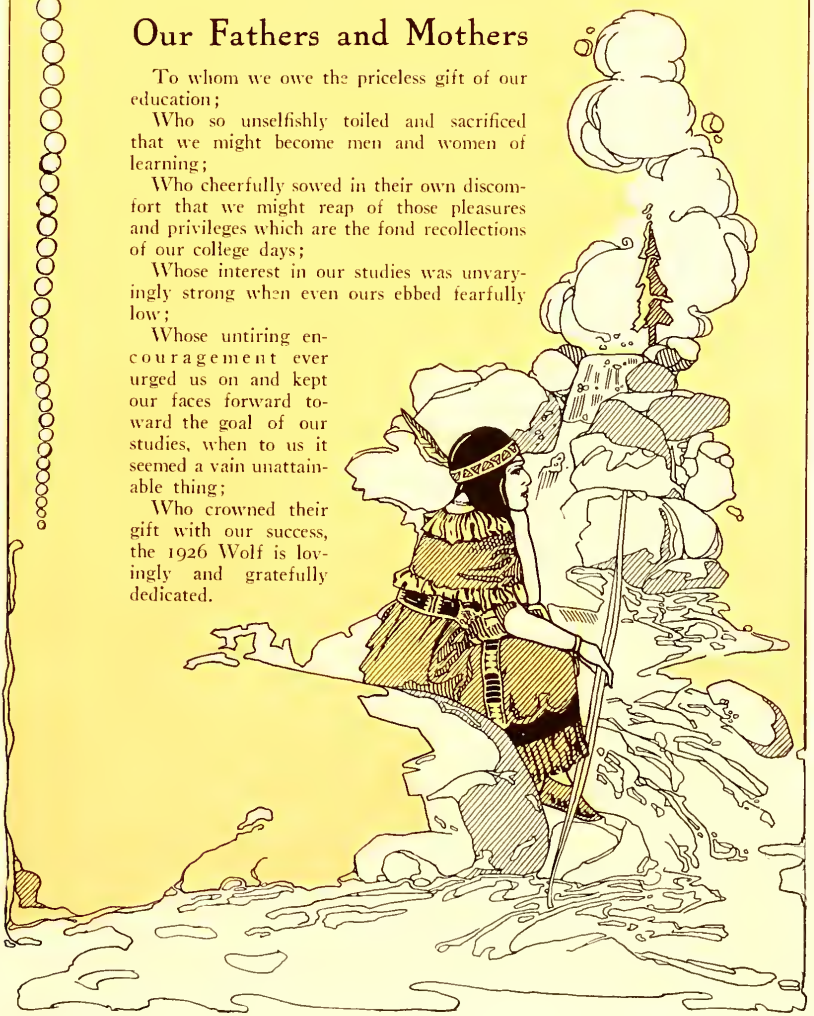
Who so unselfishly toiled and sacrificed that we might become men and women of learning;

Who cheerfully sowed in their own discomfort that we might reap of those pleasures and privileges which are the fond recollections of our college days;

Whose interest in our studies was unvaryingly strong when even ours ebbed fearfully low;

Whose untiring encouragement ever urged us on and kept our faces forward toward the goal of our studies, when to us it seemed a vain unattainable thing;

Who crowned their gift with our success, the 1926 Wolf is lovingly and gratefully dedicated.



BOOK I

The University

Listen to the words of wisdom,
Listen to the words of warning,
All our strength is in our union,
All our danger in discord.

In Memoriam

To Dr. O. L. Pothier

Of affectionate memory, who long years ago, despite the press of his absorbing duties for the health and welfare of his fellowmen, so generously responded to Loyola's call, and gave lavishly of his wide knowledge and mature experience to help lay deep and strong the foundations of the College of Dentistry of which Loyola is today so justly proud, this page is gratefully and affectionately dedicated.

BOOK II

The Classes

And the smoke rose slowly, slowly
Through the tranquil air of morning,
First a single line of darkness,
Then a denser bluer vapor,
Then a snow-white cloud unfolding,
Like the tree-tops of the forest,
Ever rising, rising, rising,
Till it touched the top of heaven.

Loyola Football Season, 1926

When first practice was called September 1st the coaches were greeted by the largest number of candidates ever recorded for a Maroon and Gold team. Practically the entire '24 team had reported, along with graduates from the freshman and intramural teams. This splendid material and a good schedule gave promise of a wonderful season. Our hopes were doomed, however, for as the day of the first game drew near, there began a series of incidents and accidents which literally left the team a wreck. To climax misfortune officials of the S. I. A. A., without rhyme or reason, began ruling out player after player until Loyola, out of self respect, was forced to resign from the Association. Minus the services of fourteen men from the first string, the Wolves met adversity with grim determination, fighting from the first whistle of the Southwestern game to the last whistle of the Tennessee game. The spirit of the team was so marked as to earn for it the title of "the gamest team Loyola ever had," and indeed it was a team that was never beaten —only outscored.

Crippled and smarting under the unjust action of the S. I. A. A., the Wolves dropped their first game to Southwestern 17 to 0. The same players went through the entire game without a rest, battling vainly against the greatest of odds, fresh men.

The following week found the Wolves engaging Camp Benning. It was one of the most powerful army teams in the country which ran over and around the desperately fighting pack for forty-five points, the while keeping their own goal uncrossed.

Saturday, October 16th, saw the wolf pack gnawing the bones of their first kill, Mississippi College. Like in preceding games, the visitors grabbed off an early lead, but, unlike preceding games, desperate battling was rewarded and the Choctaws were handed the smaller end of 7 to 6.

Dallas University was the next invader of the lair. Much heralded were the Hilltoppers, for with them came the record of a perfect goal line and not a single first down chalked against them. Although swamped under a 58 to 6 score, the pack surprised Dallas by registering five first downs and then throwing in a touchdown for good measure.

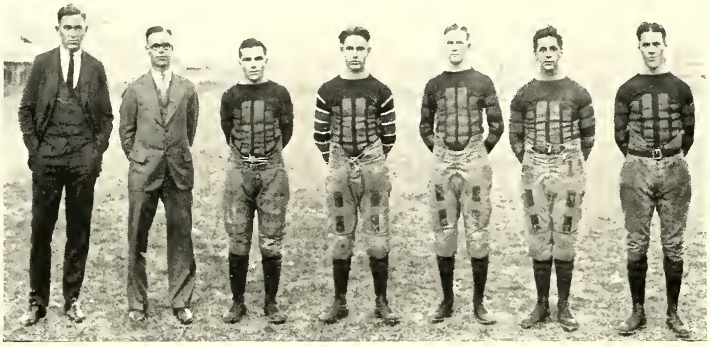
The following Saturday, the Birmingham-Southern Panthers came to battle the Wolves. Badly crippled from the disastrous Dallas fray, the team fell before the only southern team to score on the great Alabama, Southern Champions. The score, 38 to 0, is misleading, however, as the game was hard fought throughout.

It was at this time Loyola decided to sever connections with the S. I. A. A., returning to the line-up several stars who were then gracing the sidelines. It was a team somewhat resembling its old true form that took on the Oglethorpe Petrels. The Petrels, later S. I. A. A. champions, the great Maurer included, were treated to a real battle, and it was well in the second half before the flashy halfback crossed the last white line. At the end of the game the Petrels had managed to eke out a 13 to 0 victory.

Held in restraint for five of their first six games, the hungry Wolves simply tore the tempting Spring Hill morsel to pieces. Before the appetite of the "pack" was appeased, the Badgers were forced to accept the 0 from the 30 to 0 score.

The second annual battle with Louisiana State gave the Cadets sweet revenge for the drubbing the Wolves handed them two years ago. Held scoreless in the last half, the Tigers took the game by the 13 points they had gathered earlier in the game.

Handicapped by a strange climate, a strange field and a sea of mud which considerably slowed up the Loyola backs, the Tennessee Doctors were held to a 25 to 12 score. With conditions more favorable, the score would probably tell a different story, but even as it is, the closing chapter of the 1925 season is satisfactory.



Coach Tycer, Trainer Erskine, Krieder, Darcantel, Gilmore, Jaubert, Barnes

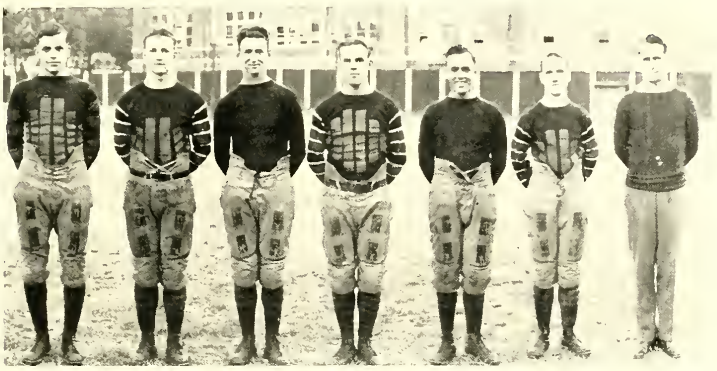
The silver lining to our football cloud, a very decided success from every standpoint, was that Freshman Team, the first real Freshman Team Loyola ever put on the field. Through their entire schedule of games went the Baby Wolves without a single serious threat on the part of their opponents, and the only team to question their right to the Freshman Championship of the South were the Vanderbilt Frosh, who managed to hold the Cubs to a 0-0 tie. Next in importance to the Vanderbilt game was the tussle with the L. S. U. Frosh, in which Loyola annexed the Freshman Championship of Louisiana. At the end of the season the Rats boasted a perfect goal line, and in addition to that, a perfect thirty yard line, a record that coming Freshman teams will be hard put to equal.

Drouilhet, Miller, Rheams, Varenholt, Weddle, Sullivan



J. D'Antoni, Decell, Pourciau, Budge, B. D'Antoni, Fitzwilliam, Coach Reed

Audubon, 17-0.	Centenary, 34-0.
Vanderbilt, 0-0.	St. Stanislaus, 53-0.
Algiers Tigers, 67-0.	L. S. U., 13-0.

THE Freshman Team, being the center of interest since Loyola did not put a varsity team on the court, carried the Maroon and Gold banner through the entire season without losing a single series.

The first call for candidates found some forty odd men reporting. Among them were such high school stars as Palm, Jaubert, Pourciau, Weddle and Peyton. With this material and Nat Tycer coaching, it was evident that Loyola would turn out a winning combination.

After a few preliminary games with frosh teams of other universities, the Loyola five was entered in the Southern A. A. U. Tournament. Except for reversals of form at the most inopportune times, it seemed as if the Championship would be ours. The Y. M. H. A., which won the title, was twice played and beaten as many times by the Frosh. The tail enders in league standing proved more troublesome, and the team dropped games to the Gymnasts, Tokay Teas and the Sunsets.

Baseball, 1926

As the Annual goes to press baseball is just getting under way, but early as it is, prospects are very encouraging. Bruce Hayes, one of the best baseball coaches in the South, is in charge of the team and is building his nine around Captain Jimmy Vorhoff, Bob Dunbar, Hughie Rogers and A. D. Smith, the only players remaining from the 1924 team (there was no varsity baseball in 1925). Coach Hayes expects these men, especially Dunbar and Vorhoff, to be the outstanding stars of the year, both being natural born players with a great deal of experience added on.

Captain Vorhoff will hold down second base, while Dunbar is the "ace" of the Loyola hurling corps. It might be noted in passing that these men have repeatedly turned down professional offers rather than interrupt their college courses.

Practice during March received a serious set back due to the heavy rains which continued throughout the month and prevented the team's reaching its form for the opening of the season.

The new field was formally dedicated to the use of baseball on Wednesday, March 31, when the team met the strong nine from Auburn. The game went to Auburn, 6-5, due more to the poor base running of our players than to the eight hits marked against Bob Dunbar. The next day Auburn rode with comparative ease to a 13-2 victory, the visitors finding Nobile's offerings frequently.

A series with Spring Hill was started at Mobile, April 4th, with Loyola dropping the game 8-3. April 5th gave the Wolves revenge and the series was split by the score of 12-8 for Loyola.

Returning to New Orleans, the two teams again split a series, Loyola winning the first game with 8-7, and Spring Hill taking the second 10-2.

With the substantial improvement which is soon expected to manifest itself in the pitching staff, the remaining games of the season will undoubtedly show Loyola to much greater advantage.

Clubs & Organizations

Bury your war-clubs and your weapons,
Break the red stone from this quarry,
Mould and make it into peace-pipes,
Take the reeds that grow beside you,
Deck them with your brightest feathers,
Smoke the calumet together.

"You Gotta Bea Gripa"

With a graceful bow we beg to introduce ourselves. We are the unancient, unbenevolent Order of Gripers. We are primarily a handball organization, founded for the purpose of furthering, facilitating and consummating the practice of crabbing and protesting all unfavorable decisions in handball games. Every close or near close decision goes in our favor; if we allow our opponents to claim it we are cheating—moreover we do wrong in allowing them to cheat. A line ball placed by our opponents is always out. We see it with our own eyes. We are a lusty, flourishing society, being composed of the loudest speakers in the University. Our roll claims, among other celebrities, the "King" of the courts. Our number is restricted—we are select. Only an exceptionally high grade of griping will entitle you to our initiation. Charter members prize their card and guard it under lock and key alongside of their graduation certificate. Our Greek ancestry is ever so genuine, forsooth: GOTTA BEA GRIPA. We are sure you are interested. So for further information kindly consult Ray Grp* Stulb or Edwin Grp* Landry.

Modern History

The RANCH has become tradition at Loyola. Why it was ever called the Ranch in the first place, or who named it that, seems to be somewhat in doubt. Some say it was Texas Barnes who did it while others hold that it was the brilliant idea of Nellie Gilmore. After many days of diligent questioning the writer was as far from finding out as when he began. But while there is such widespread uncertainty as to who named it, there is no doubt at all as to why the house was called the Ranch. Here, all the stories agree.

The Ranch is the official home of the football men. Football men are noted for the odd ideas they have of what constitutes fun. It has been the experience of the writer that football men never seem to be having a really enjoyable time unless they are wrecking some other brother's room while he is absent, or painting his face with ink when he is present, but sleeping, or putting axle grease on the doorknob. We believe it was Red Gremillion who took apart Cotten's bed and hung it out of the window; and if we remember correctly, it was Charlie Cotten who took all the slats from Red's bed, cut the bristles of three toothbrushes and sprinkled them between the sheets.

Such is the wild life at the Ranch. A fellow has to be on his guard constantly. It is not safe, for instance, to walk into a room without first looking at the top of the door, for there may be a waste paper basket so placed up there that when you open the door it will drop on your head. It is never wise to walk in the halls at night for some thoughtless person may have unwittingly left several chairs there, or may have moved the table or the piano and the electric light, so that you would stumble against them in the dark.

But even despite these barbarities, strange to say, the Ranch has its own estimable code of ethics. It is not considered good form to molest another when he is sick unto death or when he is studying. (It is said that occasions for breaking the latter regulation are quite rare.) And never for a minute would a fellow think of playing a trick on his roommate. It just isn't done. Roommates stick together to defend themselves against other fellows and their roommates. It is a case of room against room.

Now to complete this dissertation, we must observe that besides the human dwellers at the Ranch there are two other creatures who rightly deserve liberal mention in this year-book. They are Tululu, the landlady's poodle and Loco, her parrot. Anent Tululu, there was a story printed in the Maroon. It ran something like this: "There's a little poodle dog over at the Ranch. They call him, her, or it, Tululu. One day Gilmore was hungrily munching a sandwich on the porch. Little Tululu came sniffing around J. Y. as if asking for lunch. Gilmore looked up at his, her, or its mistress. 'May I throw him, her, or it a little bit?' he inquired of the landlady. 'Certainly you may,' she replied, pleased at this outburst of generosity. Whereupon, Gilmore picked up the kiyoodle by the nape of the neck and heaved him over the rail. 'And if Tululu comes back, ma'm,' he asked the lady, 'may I throw him, her, or it a little bit more?'"

And just the other day, the landlady asked Cal Cooper to rescue Loco from the top of a tree into which she had flown. So Cal grabbed a brick and knocked the poor polly down. We would like to set down just what Loco herself said to Cal, but we can't—Budge might think we were stealing his stuff.

And now in closing, we feel it our duty to console the reader with the assurance that despite so much that is all the time going on at the Ranch and that the boys play so many tricks upon one another, there is really no enmity at all. Everything is taken in good faith. A person knows better than to get peeved about anything.

So, the Ranch has become tradition at Loyola. There is no other institution in the world like it —and, according to Pourciau, there never will be.

WE are all interested in the "How" and "Why" of things. A natural and wholesome curiosity ever urges us to seek out the causes of things, to learn the means by which they were accomplished. Every kind of human progress, traced to its source, is found to spring from this God-given inquisitiveness in the mind of man. Geniuses are simply those who are intelligently and perseveringly inquisitive to a remarkable degree.

Would you know then—you who have read the foregoing pages—the "Why" and "How" of this book? The answer is to be found written upon the pages which follow. As a student or friend of Loyola, you will not be indifferent to it. You will appreciate the announcements of our friends in these next pages—our friends and yours, the advertisers in the Wolf, many of whom are responding to our appeal for the second and third time. Their contributions of money are the "Why" and "How" of this volume, for without them its publication would not have been feasible. Let their generosity find its reward in your good-will toward them. As a possessor of the Wolf, you owe some return to those who have made it possible. Give them your patronage. Let them know that the Wolf Ad brought you to their door. It will create friends for yourself and for Loyola; it will insure the success of Loyola publications.
